Empangeni was established as a Norwegian Mission in 1841 and has flourished to become the commercial and agricultural centre of the City of uMhlathuze, occupying 13% of the total 796sq/km municipal area.

According to folklore the name Empangeni was derived from the Zulu word 'phanga' (which means grabbed), as a result of the many crocodile attacks on water bearers and visitors to the nearby crocodile infested stream eMpangeni. Another version of the origin of the name of the Town is that it is derived from the Mpange trees (Olinia radiata), which grow on the banks of the Empangeni River.

NATURE

Birding

Richards Bay arguably rates as one of the BEST URBAN birding experiences in the country. With a wide variety of areas to visit, affordable local guides, bird hides and boardwalks, Richards Bay offers amazing opportunities to get out there and enjoy what nature has to offer!

Over 350 species occur in the immediate Richards Bay area; 73% of South Africa's red data book species and 24 National Rarities have been recorded from the Richards Bay area.

Within Richards Bay is the Thulasihleka Pan, probably the most reliable site for spotting Lesser Jacanas in South Africa as well as enough variety of water birds to keep you busy for most of the morning, including huge flocks of pelicans, Spoonbills and unusual species such as Baillon's Crake, African Marsh Harrier and Brown-Throated Weaver. There is also an excellent network of walking trails and hides at the pan that are a must for any birder or outdoor enthusiast in the area. Guided walks are offered.

The Southern Sanctuary (Important Bird Area SA079) and Harbour area have also long been hotspots for rarities in South Africa such as Crab Plover and Broadbilled Sandpiper. According to leading ornithologist Dave Allen, from the Natural History Museum in Durban, this is some of the best "water birding" in southern Africa.

Less than an hour's drive from Richards Bay is South Africa's most exciting forest birding area - Ongoye Forest with its Green Barbet, Eastern Bronze Naped Pigeons, Green Twinspots, Brown Robin, Yellow-Streaked Greenbuls as well as its host of endemic plants. Nseleni Nature Reserve is also a beautiful little reserve where boat trips can be arranged to see Whitebacked Night Heron and African Finfoot.

Please see page 8 and 9 for a listing of some of the interesting birds to be found in and around the City of uMhlathuze.

TOURIST DESTINATION

Richards Bay's resounding success is owed to thoughtful town planning and stringent nature conservation principles. This has ensured that industry, tourism and nature co-exist in harmony. The town and its surrounds have vast expanses of untouched indigenous vegetation and many natural lakes and marshes, making it one of the most picturesque tourist destinations in the country. The town boasts an abundance of wildlife including leopards, hippos, crocodiles and monkeys. Over 300 species of birds can be spotted in and around town, making it a bird watcher's paradise. Humpback dolphins and whales frequent the Richards Bay waters and can be viewed from a specially erected viewing platform at Alkantstrand Beach. The Enseleni Nature Reserve, which is home to wildebeest, zebra, reedbeek and other small mammals, offers hiking trails that take visitors through the Zululand bushveld and along the banks of the Nseleni River.

Richards Bay is a sporting enthusiast's haven. The year-round summer and warm Indian Ocean make an ideal training environment. The protected beaches, the Tuzi Gazi Waterfront and the bay area serve as a water sport playground. Over weekends a vibrant buzz echoes along the shores as all kinds of vessels take to the water providing pleasant entertainment for those basking in the sun or relaxing in the cool shade of the Casuarina trees where local joggers, walkers and cyclists zooming about are common phenomena. A golf course estate is at present being developed at the 18 hole golf course. The breath taking scenery and unexpected visits from hippos, crocodiles, monkeys and fish eagles complement this challenging course.

For those who prefer working out indoors there is a fully equipped modern franchised health gym. The numerous public swimming pools are ideal for serious training or simply for cooling down.

A large variety of shops in the central business district offer all of the modern day conveniences and services that we all take for granted. Businesses are always prepared to go the extra mile and visitors can look forward to excellent friendly service.
